'Disabled' fraudster's fight caught on CCTV

A BENEFIT cheat was caught on CCTV in a New Year brawl with police, despite claiming he could not leave home without a walking stick.

Timothy Harris, aged 46, told benefit officials he had problems walking after a wall fell on him. He was jailed for 15 months at Northampton Crown Court on Tuesday.

Harris, of Sage Close, The Arbours, Northampton, was captured on CCTV at around 3am on January 1, 2008, on a violent rampage. The footage was then used in an investigation by the Department of Work and Pensions which found that between January 2006 and November 2010, Harris fraudulently claimed £21,000 of income support, housing benefit and council tax benefit.

The court heard he failed to declare a change in his circumstances and had received £54,729 cash in hand which he did not declare.

The ex-soldier also claimed disability living allowance, claiming he could hardly walk, yet was spotted on CCTV during the January 2008 incident fighting, running and jogging around Northampton. He previously pleaded guilty to failing to notify a change of circumstances.

He was also sentenced for breach of a suspended sentence handed to him for the New Year's Day affray, and possessing cocaine.

Judge Richard Bray said there were two aggravating features; firstly the length of time and the various forms of deception, and secondly that Harris had been claiming disability allowance on the basis he had an injury that allegedly made it almost impossible for him to walk.

He added: "In fact, you were caught on CCTV in the midst of an affray on the street after drinking and taking drugs where you were seen to be running about and taking part in the affray."

"If you start claiming benefits on the basis you can hardly walk and you are seen running up the street, that is an outrageous fraud on the social security."

Rashad Mohammed, prosecuting, said Harris started claiming benefits towards the end of 2003: "The Income Support was paid on the basis that he was not working and was ally unable to walk. It was paid as a result of an accident which this defendant had where a wall had fallen on his leg.

"In the case he failed to declare he was in receipt of large sums of money or that his condition had improved."

Hunt for killer on Crimewatch

THE hunt for Anxiang Du, the man accused of murdering the Ding family at their home in Wootton, is set to feature on BBC's Crimewatch next week.

Mr Du, aged 52, from Coventry, has now been on the run for 18 days after he allegedly stabbed to death university lecturer Jifeng "Jeff" Ding, his wife Helen – a teacher at Caroline Chisholm School – and their children, Xing, aged 18, and Alice, aged 12, on April 29.

A silver Corsa, thought to have been used by Mr Du to flee the bloody crime scene in Pioneer Close, Simpson Manor, was found close to the Edgware Road, in St John's Wood, London, last Wednesday.

Having carried out a full forensic examination of the vehicle, police are now trawling through hundreds of hours of CCTV footage from train and underground stations and cameras close to where the car was discovered in a bid to track the alleged killer down.

Yesterday, it emerged producers for BBC's Crimewatch had also been asked to help raise the profile of the hunt by screening an appeal, to be aired across the country, next week.

A spokesman for the BBC said the appeal would be aired in May's edition of Crimewatch, next Tuesday, if Mr Du was still at large.

It has also emerged murder squad detectives have asked restaurant, hygiene and environmental health inspectors visiting Chinese herbal remedy centres, Chinese supermarkets, takeaways and restaurants across the country to be "extra vigilant" when carrying out checks, "particularly when carrying out inspections and re-visits at premises linked to, or within, the Chinese community".

Police have said they fear Mr Du may be being sheltered by members of the Chinese community, possibly in London.

Crimewatch will appeal for information on Anxiang Du, right, the main suspect in the murder of the Dings, above Officers have also spoken to a number of national experts on matters ranging from searching to forensics.

Detective Superintendent Glyn Timmins who is leading the investigation, said: "Anxiang Du seems to have 'gone to ground' but someone must know where he is. I am asking members of the public to cast their minds back to the day of the Royal Wedding and think about what they were doing on the day."

25 years of top quality & service to the Northamptonshire & surrounding area

The search is on for county's top

NORTHAMPTON'S GOT Talent is back for a third consecutive year, with organisers predicting the 2011 contest will be the "biggest and best" yet.

Entries for the competition are now open, with live auditions due to take place in the Grosvenor Shopping Centre from August 1-12 and the grand final will be held on a stage in the Market Square on August 27.

The competition is open to individuals or groups of singers and dancers, as well as comedians, gymnasts or anyone who feels they have an entertaining talent.

The contest is organised by the Grosvenor Centre and the Market Square's events team and the winning act will receive £500 in shopping vouchers.

The three judges in the live semi-finals will again be Mandie Smith, marketing manager at the Grosvenor Centre, Market Square events organiser Becky Allen, and Chronicle & Echo reporter Callum Jones.

Mandie Smith said: "The competition, which started in 2009, has by far surpassed our expectations."

"We certainly never expected, in that first year, just how popular the event would become."

"The quality of the acts last year was again extremely strong with some pretty amazing performances."

"The level of talent on offer in Northamptonshire never ceases to amaze us."

Becky Allen said: "We are very excited about this year's show and confident it will prove even bigger and better than last year."

Applications can now be submitted. To download an entry form, visit grosvenorshoppingcentre.co.uk or go to www.marketsquareevents.com. The closing date for applications is July 17.

Event menu is revealed...

THE scale of the task facing the Chron's Kitchen contestants has become apparent, with the release of the menu they will have to learn to cook.

Six novice chefs – Cobblers chairman David Cardoza, soon-to-be Saints chairman Leon Barwell, Northamptonshire County Council chief executive Paul Blanter, Northampton Borough Council chief executive David Kennedy and town estate agents Simon Hill and Simon Bond – will go head-to-head in the kitchens of The Albergo Restaurant in Lower Mounts, Northampton, in aid of the Chronicle & Echo's charity appeal.

Starting with a series of cook-offs on Tuesday, June 7, the group will raise cash for the Chron and Macmillan Cancer Support's £1.55 million appeal for a new blood cancer treatment unit at Northampton General Hospital. One winner will then take on a sporting legend in the kitchen in a grand final on Friday, June 17.

The cook-off stage dishes will be a starter of either salt cod ravioli with saffron aioli, pickled vegetables and rocket; or ham hock and parsley terrine with confit tomato, new season's peas, herb mayonnaise and brioche.

This will be followed by a main course of either roast rump of lamb with shallot and olive tart, wild garlic, asparagus and lamb's leaf salad; or crisp salmon with potato and red onion salad, watercress and lemon butter sauce.

Dessert will be passion fruit soufflé with pineapple sorbet or the restaurant's speciality, dark chocolate torte with malt ice cream.

Rap act Tony Henry and Jamie Georcelin, above, won last year's Northampton's Got Talent event. Could you be this year's winner?

Agencies failed to spot abuse

HEALTH professionals, social workers and police officers failed to remove a baby from a harmful situation until she had sustained life-threatening injuries including a fractured skull and broken legs, a report found.

The baby girl, identified only as Child F, was referred to health workers with marks and injuries nine times before being made the subject of an emergency protection order in March 2009, at the age of eight months, when X-rays and a CT scan found a skull fracture, broken legs and a fractured arm.

Doctors were later able to establish the injuries were not as the result of accidents.

A serious case review carried out afterwards – the results of which were published this week – found a catalogue of failings by professionals in the eight months leading up to the intervention, including missed signs which should have triggered further investigations into possible abuse; a failure to carry out anything more than initial assessments; a failure by police to effectively manage and carry out an investigation when a complaint was made; and errors in communication, practice and professional judgement.

Marks and bruises found on the child's body from the age of three weeks old were initially attributed to a skin condition, and the report claims this probable mis-diagnosis influenced the outcome of subsequent action taken.

It makes eight recommendations for improvement, including a multi-agency audit to examine procedures.

Janet Galley, independent chairman of the Local Safeguarding Children Board Northamptonshire, which carried out the review, said the report's recommendations had been implemented. She said the report had also identified good practice, and cited a recent "good" rating received from Ofsted for the service.

The Duke drops in

A MASONIC sword and a stuffed dog where among the hoards of treasure resurrected from attics around the county, as Dickinson's Real Deal came to Northampton.

Hundreds queued at Northamptonshire County Cricket Club on Saturday for a chance to trade in unwanted treasures for cash and meet antiques expert David Dickinson, nicknamed The Duke.

Norman Meares, aged 68, from Deanshanger, who will appear on air when series seven is screened in the next 12 months, sold his grandfather's masonic sword, which is cleverly disguised as a walking stick, for £140.

Mr Meares did not know if his grandfather, who was murdered while working in a diamond mine in South Africa, was a mason, but was pleased to sell the ceremonial item.

He said: "It has just been sitting in a cupboard for 42 years. I brought it along because I needed a bit of cash to do up my car and I'm not really sad to part with it."

David Dickinson, also known as The Duke, dropped into Northamptonshire County Cricket Club on Saturday for filming of Dickinson's Real Deal. Hundreds queued for a chance to trade in their goods, which included a Masonic sword disguised as a walking stick

Homes planned

RESIDENTS have a chance to comment on plans to build more than 1,000 homes on green-field land on the edge of Northampton.

The planning application, by developer The Ensign Group Ltd, has been lodged with Daventry District Council, whose boundary the land falls into.

In 2007, residents fought off proposals for the Buckton Fields housing estate on the same land in Brampton Lane, near Boughton, just north of Kingsthorpe, which included 1,250 new homes and a new school, after fears about the overload of local services.

However, Ensign has lodged a new plan and residents have until June 3 to make written representations about the application.

The revised plan has addressed some of the objections from 2007, including housing density, traffic congestion and the provision of community facilities.

The resurrected plans would see 1,050 homes being built, a 500-space park and ride car park, two new bus services, a local centre, a primary school, a 70-bed care home and an area of open space.

Daventry District Council leader, Chris Millar (Con, West Haddon and Guilsborough), said he would encourage residents to read a copy of the planning application and write to the council with any observations they have.

He said: "It's important that members of the public register their interest in the plans, whether to support them or to object to them. I would encourage residents to have a look at the scheme and urge them to put any representations in, which will then be taken into account when the application goes before the planning committee."

He said the next stage was for the application to go before Daventry District Council's planning committee.

A spokesman for the authority said a report on the application was currently being prepared and was expected to go before the committee during the summer.

Residents can view the planning application at the Daventry District Council offices or at www.daventrydc.gov.uk or www.bucktonfields.co.uk

Flying start

A PANTO-STYLE horse and mums pushing push-chairs were among more than 130 villagers who donned their running shoes to start the 40th Moulton Village Festival in style.

The Moulton Fun Run began just before noon on Sunday, drawing 131 entrants for the three-mile jaunt around the village.

The event launched a week of festivities in the village, which include exhibitions, concerts and family events, concluding on Sunday.

Organiser Jane Austin said: "It went really well, a good turn-out and a great start to the festival."

Barry Care, festival co-ordinator, said: "It is a nice community event, which involves everyone from children to adults. I think everyone from the village has done the fun run at some point in their lives."

First across the finish line was villager Karl Neville, aged 42, who was also crowned 'King of the Hill'. His son, Corey Neville, aged 10, scooped 'fastest junior'.

Mr Neville said: "I have been doing it for a few years and I have always come second or third, so it is great to finally achieve first place."

Mum Charlotte Yarker, aged 29, from Moulton, was the first woman to finish the race, and her six-year-old also participated.

She said: "It's been a bit of a family occasion. My little girl has taken part and my four-year-old and one-year-old have been cheering us on."

Dom Banham-Hall, aged 29, from Hartwell, and John Spence, aged 24, from Moulton, both dressed up in a panto-horse costume to raise money for Moulton parish church while doing the race.

Dave Connell says - "When Homesure originally opened in Milton Keynes in 1991, the objective was to provide a warm and welcoming way of doing straight forward business with local people. A few simple guidelines were set out to ensure that it was always a pleasure to do business with Homesure. No dubious sales techniques, false promises or underhand tactics, just straight forward good deals, a great product for a fair price. Those initial principals have not changed. Over 100 new customers a month from Milton Keynes, and the surrounding areas, now choose a brand of The Home Improvement Partnership, either Homesure, The Door Studio, Denverglaze, Simply Conservatories or MK Glass. Therefore, you are invited to have a FREE NO OBLIGATION QUOTATION in the comfort of your own home or online, or to visit our QUOTE CLINIC. Bring your window sizes, styles and maybe a photo to our showroom for on the spot advice, design and quotation. You can see for yourself our range of products and finishes. Industrial estate plan could create new jobs

A DEVELOPMENT proposal could bring new jobs to the county if it is granted by planning chiefs.

West Northamptonshire Development Corporation (WNDC) will discuss a planning application for the proposed development of the existing Royal Oak industrial estate in Daventry, today.

Ford Motor Company Ltd has applied to develop an area in the existing site, to provide around 28,000 sq metres general industrial area, storage and distribution space, offices and car parking spaces.

The proposed development should provide employment opportunities for residents and would involve the southern end of the main Ford site on the industrial estate. The central site has been granted planning permission for previous applications, including an area for a Ford parts depot in 1966 and buildings for uses such as storage, offices, sports club facilities in the 1970s and 1980s.

The report notes that no noise assessment had been carried out on the plans and that "consideration should be given to the appearance, scale, layout and landscaping to ensure the amenities and privacy of local people are safeguarded".

The WNDC will discuss the plans on Thursday.

Ex-Saint in rights role

FORMER Northampton Saints rugby player Ben Cohen has brought his career to a premature end in order to focus on an organisation he set up which aims to combat bullying and homophobia.

The Northampton-born 32-year-old, who won the rugby World Cup with England in 2003, has been released by Sale Sharks but has turned down the chance to prolong his playing career and will instead devote his energies to setting up The Ben Cohen Stand Up Foundation.

Mr Cohen, who played for the Saints from 1996-2007 and scored 31 tries in 57 tests for England, said he had offers from rival Aviva Premiership clubs, as well as the option of playing in France for another two years, but he felt the time was right for a new challenge.

He said: "To be honest, I would never have imagined my career was going to move in this direction after my professional rugby career, but here we are, it's happening."

Ben Cohen celebrates England's World Cup victory in 2003

Library picture

"It is incredibly exciting and we have so many plans in the pipeline to be able to make a difference. In my view, rugby is a very inclusive sport.

"Everyone can get involved in one way or another, so I will be using it as a vehicle to drive my message of acceptance out to people from all walks of life, everywhere."

Mr Cohen is due to travel to the USA for his Acceptance Tour from May 19-29, during which he will visit gay-friendly rugby clubs in Atlanta, New York, Washington DC and Seattle.

He said: "There is a lot of work to be done. Attitudes need to change."

"Young people should not be bullied into taking their own lives. That is what is happening and it needs to stop."

"I've reached the top in my sport."

"It has been an incredible journey and has put me in the privileged position I'm in today to be able to work on these exciting new projects through the 'Stand Up' Brand."

"As athletes, it's not enough just to have strong bodies."

"We must have strong characters and use our voices to support those who need and deserve it."

The Street is a stage

MISSING two episodes of 'Coronation Street' on Monday night was a small price to pay for witnessing 50 years of the soap crammed into one show at the Royal & Deengate. It seemed a good trade-off for a soap fan and I was full of anticipation to see how Jonathan Harvey's new comedy Corrie! would manage to compress half a century's worth of melodrama into one production. The play opens with Coronation Street favourite Elsie Tanner (played by Lucy Thackeray), puffing away on a cigarette and looking down on the famous Manchester cobbles. Led by narrator Ken Mortley (best known for playing ladies' man Reg Holdsworth on the street), the show then spirals into dramatic moment after dramatic moment. We see Gail hop from one man to another in a string of failed marriages to cheaters and psychopaths, but admire her eternal belief that the next time wedding bells chime she will have a happy ending. Then there is a spotlight on Tracy, the rather pleasant teenager who spends most of the '80s and '90s listening to tapes in her bedroom before emerging after her long incarceration as a notoriously evil temptress with a penchant for malice.

Then there is good old Ken, whose turbulent relationship with "sexy specs" Deirdre is a rollercoaster of marital infidelity.

All of this is included as well as both tram crashes, the last of which is performed with an impressive pyrotechnic display on stage.

The comedy is largely reliant on the show's strong cast of actors, many of whom are gifted with impersonation skills.

Among the most brilliant was Lucy Thackeray, who seemed to mould herself effortlessly into characters as diverse as Vera and Annie Walker to Raquel and Elsie.

Leanne Best also did a terrific job as Gail, a part which, for me, led to the most laughs.

Simon Chadwick also shone as Ken and the evil Richard Hillman, playing both with some great comedy touches.

I think Corrie! could more easily be appreciated as a sketch show rather than a play, as the scenes did not always blend together with ease.

One point of criticism would be directed at the narrator's role as I felt Ken Mortley was rather tacked away from the main action and could have been allowed to reprise his role as Reg for at least one scene.

Otherwise, I thoroughly enjoyed Corrie! and think it succeeded in capturing some great memories from one of Britain's best loved soaps.

Corrie! will run in Northampton until Saturday. To book tickets ring Northampton 624811 or log onto www.royalanddeengate.co.uk.

A surprise hit

TIME and again, when extraterrestrials invade Earth, they choose the trigger happy United States of America as the point of inception. And every time, there is a square-jawed hero, striking a pose in front of the Stars And Stripes, who single-handedly repels their otherworldly advances. So in Attack The Block, a riotous action comedy from writer-director Joe Cornish, the aliens descend instead on an unsuspecting south London council estate. The terrified residents of the capital should be no match for slaving beasts with luminous fangs... except the invaders don't count on local knife-wielding hoodies with a serious attitude problem. The wolf-like creatures soon realise that their devastating speed and strength are no match for the lads, whose merciless fighting instincts have been honed on their PlayStation and Xbox.

Attack The Block has the potential to be one of the surprise hits of the summer, boasting some energetic action sequences in and around the tower block as well as hilarious one-liners.

ROADTEST: Vauxhall Corsa 1.3CDTi ecoFLEX

Mellow yellow

FACTFILE

CAR: Vauxhall Corsa Limited Edition 1.3CDTi ecoFLEX
PRICE: £16,330
DRIVETRAIN: 1.3 litre 74bhp diesel engine, 5-speed gearbox
PERFORMANCE: Top speed 101mph 0-62mph 13.9 seconds
ECONOMY: Euro average 62.3mpg CO2 112g/km road tax £0 first year, then £30
SIZE: 3999mm long 1737mm wide
SAFETY: EuroNCAP 5 stars
INSURANCE: Group 5 (of 50)
WARRANTY: 100,000 miles without time limit for first owner

WHEN the first thing Vauxhall tells you about the latest Corsa is how a restyled front end gives the car a smiling appearance, it's clear not a lot has changed.

But, you could argue, there was not a lot wrong with the car in the first place. With enough sales to keep it in the top three month after month, the little hatchback has found a place in the hearts of UK car buyers.

But to stand utterly still is to invite the opposition to drop down a gear and accelerate past you, so even in the high octane sales world of Corsa-land, things have to move on.

In the past year or so the Corsa range has seen more economical engines under the bonnets of some models and subtle but important changes aimed at making the car more comfortable and a more engaging drive.

Less subtle on the car tested here is a set of styling features that make it look like a trainee racer, from big alloy wheels painted black, dark tinted rear windows and a choice of three colours: bright red, washday white or vibrant yellow (all with a black roof).

If you think this sounds a bit OTT (it actually looks rather smart in a mildly boy racerish way), there's always a more sober suited Corsa like the one pictured.

It's the one I'd have, even though the Special Edition made me feel a couple of decades younger than my joints act in the mornings.

Vauxhall is doing what all its competitors indulge in when they've got a model that rides high in the charts: pop out a different version to tempt a few more punters.

It's a game played by more than mere providers of everyday transport too; scarcely a month goes by without Porsche, for instance, discovering another model of 911 hiding in the factory and yours for upwards of £70,000.

A Porsche might be more fun (until you filled it up) but for a brisk morning's motor-touring the special Corsa has me grinning.

Not because it's Porsche quick; it's a bit of a slowcoach. On paper, at least, for on a real road its tightened down sports suspension and chunky tyres turned this little machine into a civilised skateboard. That's a compliment, by the way.

Other Special Edition touches include a roof spoiler and race car like bodywork extensions at front, side and rear, while inside there are racy touches of contrasting stitching on the seats and boldly hued rings around the ventilation outlets.

All this attitude doesn't come at the cost of practicality. This diesel powered Special Edition (there's a petrol too) ranks as one of the more economical cars you can buy even if, like everything else, it won't approach the posted 67mpg in real world use.

It ought to easily break the mid-50s though. That level of economy allied to negligible road tax, free for the first year, means the Corsa won't cost much to run.

It does cost rather a lot to buy, though, in this Special Edition form; non-special models look a more sensible buy. Five-door Corsas start from £11,790 but for £14,840 there's an Excite version with most of the Special Edition's bits and the same economical diesel engine.

Not so special, but a lot of sense.

that the Governing Body of Roade School Sports College, a foundation school, located at Stratford Road, Roade, Northampton NN7 2LP intends to discontinue the school with effect from 31 August 2011.

It is proposed that pupils will transfer to Kingsbrook Business and Enterprise School, will be enlarged by utilisation of the premises of the current Roade School Sports College (See Part 2).
Admission may also be sought to other schools that have places available.

PART 2: PRESCRIBED CHANGES TO KINGSBROOK BUSINESS AND ENTERPRISE SCHOOL SO THAT IT CAN BE MERGED WITH ROADE SCHOOL SPORTS COLLEGE

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 19(1) of the Education and Inspections Act 2006 that Northamptonshire County Council intends to enlarge the premises of Kingsbrook Business and Enterprise School, a community school, located at Stratford Road, Deanshanger, Milton Keynes, MK19 6HN with effect from 1 September 2011. The current capacity of the school is 1,048 places and the proposed capacity will be 2,388 places. The current number of pupils registered at the school is 812. The current annual admission number for the school is 168 and the proposed annual admission number will be 348 (168 on the Kingsbrook site and 180 on the Roade site). It is intended that the increase in capacity will be achieved by utilising the premises of Roade School Sports College, Stratford Road, Roade, Northampton NN7 2LP. The current County Council School Transport Policy will continue to apply. It is assumed that existing transport arrangements will continue.

I confirm that all the statutory consultation requirements have been complied with.
This notice is an extract from the complete proposal. Copies of the complete proposal can be obtained by contacting the officer named below on 01604-237910 or through the public participation section of the Northamptonshire County Council website: www.northamptonshire.gov.uk/Democracy/council/consultation/consultation.htm
Part 1 and Part 2 are interdependent.

REPRESENTATIONS - Representations regarding Part 1 and Part 2 should be made within six weeks of the date of publication of this proposal. Any person may object to or make comments on the proposal by sending them to:

Signed: Christine Marshall Chair of Governors, Roade School Sports College Quentin Baker
Director of Legal Services, Northamptonshire County Council Date: 13 May 2011

Explanatory Notes:

1. Although the notice refers to "pupils transferring to Kingsbrook Business and Enterprise School", education will continue, as now, on the Roade site and on the Kingsbrook site. For all existing students, there will be an automatic transfer, with no new applications or hopes to join through.
2. The merger will name the site they wish to apply to, either the Roade site or the Deanshanger site.
3. The merger will cause no change to existing travel arrangements with students being transported, as now, to and from their home site at the beginning and end of the school day.
4. The County Council and the Governing Bodies are committed to retaining educational provision on both sites, recognising that such provision is important to the communities, and welcome - the increased involvement of community members in actively supporting the two sites.
5. The merger will enable the school to develop its work with primary colleagues, and with Higher and Further education providers to ensure that our students receive an outstanding education in a rural setting to prepare them to be global citizens.

Webster has big ambition

BYRON WEBSTER has dropped two divisions to sign for the Cobblers - but the big defender is confident it will be a case of two steps back, and one step forward.

The 24-year-old signed a two-year deal at Sixfields after agreeing to the switch following his release from npower Championship outfit Doncaster Rovers.

Webster, who spent the last two months of the season with the Cobblers on loan, accepts he is taking a bit of a gamble by dropping to league two.

But he feels this time next year, he will have taken his first step back up the league ladder with his new club.

"It's good to be here, as we have been negotiating for a while," said Webster.

"When I first came here on loan there were talks about whether I wanted to come, and from what I have seen last season, and what the manager has said to me it is all positive.

"The manager has spoken to me and he doesn't want to stay in this league.

"He wants to get up to league one and that's all I needed to hear.

"I could have easily gone to another club, and pick up my wage and plod along in league two or wherever, but that is not what I'm all about.

"I want to progress, firstly for myself, and also to help Northampton."

Webster becomes Gary Johnson's first signing of the summer, and the Town boss said the Leeds-born central defender was always on his wanted list.

"I am very pleased to get him in as he was always one of our first targets this summer," said Johnson.

O'Driscoll's the threat for Foden

BEN FODEN says the greatest danger to ending an 11-year wait for a second Heineken Cup title is Ireland legend Brian O'Driscoll.

Saints, the champions in 2000, are the first team in the 16 seasons of the tournament to reach European club rugby's showpiece final unbeaten with eight wins from eight, and they take on Leinster at the Millennium Stadium this Saturday (ko 5pm).

O'Driscoll took a blow to a knee against Ulster on Friday night, but if fit England full back Foden feels the remains wary of the 32-year-old captain of Ireland poses the biggest threat in a central axis alongside fellow internationals Jonny Sexton and Gordon D'Arcy.

"Leinster have quality players across the entire side," said Foden. "But I guess their area around 10, 12 and 13 is certainly one of their greatest dangers.

"They also have a big and physical pack but the way our boys have been running lately we hope that we can find some holes out wide.

"You are unlikely to get many chances like this in your career - any number of players will never be lucky enough to be in this position - so you have to make the most of the chance when it comes and, although players like O'Driscoll and D'Arcy have done it all before, we are a young and inexperienced side in terms of a major competition of this size and importance.

"This final is an absolutely massive game for the Saints - in fact it is as big as you get playing for your club.

"We all know the Heineken Cup is like football's Champions League and to be crowned the kings of Europe is such a huge honour.

"We like to play a wide game and all the signs are that it is going to be a brilliant spectacle not only for the fans of the two sides, but also for the neutrals at the game.

"Leinster are one of the truly greats in European club rugby; they are flying high and they are playing some great rugby - we saw their semi-final against Toulouse and that was one hell of a game.

"We will have to be right at top of our game if we want to win the Heineken Cup but, on the neutral ground of the Millennium Stadium, we have to fancy our chances."

Saints go into the game on the back of their narrow 11-3 Aviva Premiership semi-final defeat at Leicester Tigers last Saturday.
